Los Angeles, 28 September 2018 – Consul General Adelio Angelito S. Cruz met with the Executive Director of the Federation of Philippine American Chambers of Commerce (FPACC), Mr. Rynn Schumacher and its Vice President, Ms. Mary Ann R. Omega, regarding the FPACC’s upcoming trade and humanitarian mission to the Philippines.

FPACC’s trade and humanitarian mission will be held on 15 – 20 October 2018 and is expected to bring in hundreds of Filipino-American game changers in the field of business. Part of the mission’s program is a business conference on infrastructure and digital economy.

Consul General Cruz and the FPACC officers discussed issues impacting trade and investment relations between the Philippines and the United States and other developments, which may be raised during the week-long trade and humanitarian mission.

Consul General Cruz conveyed the Philippine Consulate General’s full support to the mission and his hope for the mission’s success and the enormous benefit that both countries may reap from such an endeavor. END
