Said orders impose stricter social distancing measures, including the closing of non-essential businesses, such as entertainment and gaming facilities, and gyms and health clubs; postponement of gatherings; and closing of dine-in restaurants.

In Los Angeles, City Mayor Eric Garcetti announced on 19 March 2020 the implementation of “Safer at Home” Order in consonance with Governor Newsom’s Executive Order. Under the order, L.A. residents are prohibited from:

1. Going to work unless their work involves vital services including those in government, healthcare, food provision, banks, transportation, infrastructure and others as stipulated by the order;
2. Making personal visits to friends and families except for urgent circumstances;
3. Visiting loved ones in hospital, nursing home or other residential care facilities;
4. Traveling outside the City of Los Angeles, except for those who live outside the City and whose work involves essential services; and
5. Staying less than 6 feet away of distance from others when outdoors.

Under the same Order, the following activities are allowed:

1. Going to the grocery store to buy food and other essentials;
2. Picking up medications and healthcare necessities from a pharmacy;
3. Attending medical appointments;
4. Getting food from restaurants through pick-up, take-out or drive-through;
5. Caring or supporting a friend or family member;
6. Outdoor exercise observing 6 feet social distance;
7. Walking pets and taking them to the veterinarian; and
8. Helping someone get necessary supplies.
