LA PCG Holds Virtual Meeting

20 April 2020, Los Angeles – The Philippine Consulate General held a virtual meeting of its officers and staff in the morning of 20 April 2020 through the teleconferencing platform Google Meet. The meeting was presided over by Consul General Adelio Angelito S. Cruz.

As the California and Los Angeles stay-at-home orders remain in place, Consulate General personnel were reminded to continue serving the Filipino community by promptly responding to inquiries raised through calls or emails, as well as extend appropriate assistance to Filipinos with pressing concerns.

It may be recalled that in compliance with local ordinances drawn up to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Consulate General temporarily suspended consular services to the public, beginning 19 March 2020, until further notice.

With initial pronouncements being made by U.S. authorities on phasing back the country into a “new normal” mode post-lockdown, the Consulate General also discussed guidelines on gradually resuming its consular services while taking into account local measures that are expected to be put in place to check future outbreaks.

The Consulate General assures the Filipino-American community that the public will be informed of any developments in its work schedule with adequate lead time through an Advisory to be posted on the Consulate General’s official website and Facebook page. END.
